Books or T.V

Sorry if you have just paid for hundreds of dollars because books are a fantastic source of entertainment and some books are very interesting to read anywhere anytime.

Also libraries are sorted into three sections Fiction, Non-Fiction and Reference. Fiction is a narrative or fairy tale. Non-fiction is a true story or piece of information. Reference is a Dictionary, Atlas, Encyclopaedia or thesaurus. These sections make it easier to find different types of books, and all your information is there at your fingertips.

You can take books anywhere, if you’re travelling on a bus to work, out side or just want to take a book to bed. TVs are a lot bigger so you can’t really take them anywhere. Books are also proven to make you sleepy so if you can’t sleep or something is keeping you up grab a good book to read.

TVs are also extremely noisy, where books, you can read them to yourself quietly or you can read them aloud to a group of people. Also with books you can put them down to read for another time, but with TV you can’t just put it down for another time.

So next time you are out in town why not go and pick up a good book from the books store or library instead of watching TV all the time. So believe me when I tell you books are better than T.V.
